

Pick Up & Go 1: School Gala

The Pick Up & Go collection was designed to integrate cross-curricular learning around regular school events. This resource helps students be actively involved in the planning, implementation and evaluation of the school gala. It includes 11 focus activities, which can be integrated into your numeracy, literacy, social science or technology programmes.

Student learning

Through Pick Up & Go 1: School Gala, students will

- Learn about marketplaces, including the difference between goods and services
- Work in teams to create a product or service which will be sold at the school gala

Curriculum links

The Pick Up & Go collection provides practical and hands-on learning activities that develop enterprise and financial capability. The activities integrate with multiple learning areas including literacy, numeracy, social sciences and technology; and helps students engage with the vision and principles of the curriculum and develop their key competencies.

"In the past we have organised and run a school fair every two years as a fundraiser. This was largely planning, organised and managed by adults. Students were mainly involved in assisting on the evening. As we have moved to looking at increasing opportunities for students to be involved in authentic learning opportunities and leading their own learning, we wanted to modify this event to become a student led twilight market. The focus was predominantly on our students running an evening for our wider community." Nikki Clark, Deputy Principal, Breens Intermediate
